HOLLYWOOD -- Although Globe winners and award season favorites Hilary Swank, Jamie Foxx and Annette Bening garnered kudos at the ninth annual Intl. Press Academy's Satellite awards, a few surprise performances also were honored during the kudofest Sunday night.

Mel Gibson won the helmer award for "The Passion of the Christ," while Christopher Walken nabbed the dramatic supporting actor kudo for "Around the Bend."

The IPA, like the HFPA, nominates films and TV programs and also separates dramatic films and TV shows from comedies and/or musicals.

Beating out "The Aviator," "Hotel Rwanda" took home the prize for dramatic film. Pic's star Don Cheadle walked away with the dramatic actor award.

Rowlands, King win

Gena Rowlands ("The Notebook) and Regina King ("Ray") nabbed supporting actress prizes in the dramatic and comedic categories, respectively.

Critics' darling "Sideways" took home kudos for comedic film and best ensemble of the year. Pic's thesp Thomas Haden Church won the comedic supporting actor award.

Foreign film of the year went to Javier Bardem's "The Sea Inside," while "Super Size Me" won the docu prize.

Television winner included "Desperate Housewives" and "Nip/Tuck" for best comedic and dramatic series respectively.

"Arrested Development" thesp Portia De Rossi and Jason Bateman nabbed comedic lead acting kudos.

Susan Sarandon and Jerry Lewis received honorary awards.
